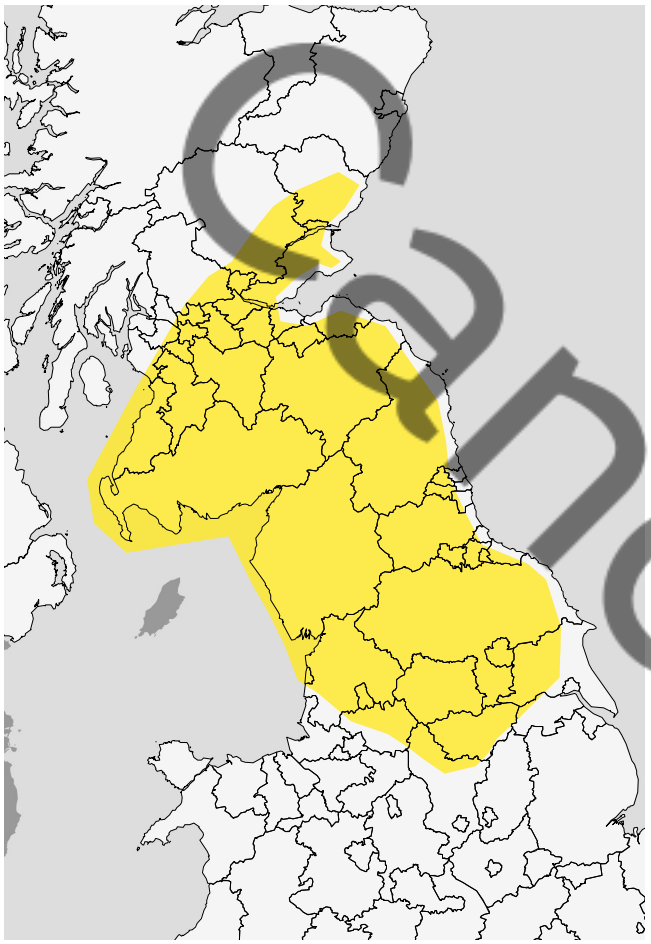
Yellow warning
Snow

Between
09:00 Wed 1 Jan 2025 and
03:00 Thu 2 Jan 2025



Heavy and persistent snow may bring disruption on Wednesday and Wednesday night.

What to expect

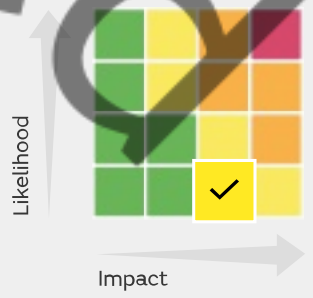
- There is a small chance of travel delays on roads with some stranded vehicles and passengers, along with delayed or cancelled rail and air travel
- There is a slight chance that some rural communities could become cut off
- There is a small chance that power cuts will occur and other services, such as mobile phone coverage, may be affected

Cancelled

Further details

A band of rain in association with a deep low pressure system moving in from the west pushes east on Wednesday. This is likely to turn to snow as it moves into cold air across the northern half of the UK. 2-5 cm and locally nearer 10 cm of snow accumulations are possible widely, with 10-15 cm and locally 20-25 cm over hills with significant drifting due to strong winds.

What should I do?



Very low likelihood of medium impacts

People cope better when they have prepared in advance for the risk of power cuts or being cut off from services and amenities due to the snow. It's easy to do; consider gathering torches and batteries, a mobile phone power pack and other essential items.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change quickly: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.

Reason for cancellation

Heavy, persistent snow is no longer expected for much of this region. Some snow is still likely on high ground during Wednesday, especially in southern Scotland.
